Q.1 Read the information text, then answer the questions below. 8 points

Birds of the oceans and lakes

Ocean birds: Albatross

Albatrosses are the most amazing travellers. The great albatross has the longest wings in the world and it can fly 400 kilometres in a day. Albatrosses can grab fish from the sea easily because they have hooked beaks. They can dive under the water and some of them can dive down 12 metres. Albatrosses live for 50-60 years. Unfortunately, these beautiful birds are in danger. Fishing boats pull huge nets through the ocean. The nets trap many albatrosses when they dive in the water and the birds drown. More than 100,000 albatrosses die in this way every year. An albatross chick stays on land for 9 months.

Penguin

Some penguins live in very cold places. Others live in warm places. The Emperor penguin is the tallest. It is 110 cm tall. The smallest is the Little Blue penguin. It is only 40 cm tall. Penguins can see well underwater so they can catch fish in the ocean. The Emperor penguin can dive down 565 m and it can stay underwater for 20 minutes. Penguins cannot fly but they are excellent swimmers.

Lake and river birds: Swan

Swans build the most enormous nests in plants near the water. The mother and father birds build a nest from twigs and small branches. They stay together for life. The mother bird lays 4-7 eggs. A baby swan is a cygnet. The parents can carry the cygnets on their backs when they are very young. Swans live on rivers and small lakes. Usually, they are white. The young cygnets are grey. After a year, they are as strong and graceful as their parents. Their wide, flat, webbed feet help the swan to swim.

Goose

A baby goose is a gosling. The plural of goose is geese. Many geese are wild but you can see geese on farms, too. They live near water. They can swim well and they can fly over the land. When they fly together they make a huge V in the sky.
