Q.1 Read the text, then answer the questions below. 10 points

The Power of Appearance

When we see someone for the first time, our brains instantly notice things like their age, hair, eye and skin colour or height and voice, and we use this information to make assumptions about their education, social position and character. Without realising it, we then make important decisions - such as who to vote for, who to give a job to or who to trust - based on these assumptions.

A few years ago, social scientists set up an experiment in 45 different countries, in which people had to guess what 120 individuals were like based on pictures of their faces. The results showed that in every region of the world, people rated men and women over 40 as more confident, responsible, sociable and reliable. There are also studies that show that we perceive grey-haired individuals as wise or mature, or people who wear glasses as intelligent.

The way we dress also has an impact in situations such as school, social occasions or work. We often look up to someone who is very well-dressed and look down on those who don't dress as smartly. We show more respect to people in uniforms and are more likely to listen carefully to a doctor when he or she is wearing a white coat instead of casual clothes.

The clothes we wear don't just affect what others think of us; they also affect how we feel about ourselves. In one fascinating experiment, scientists showed that if you wear a white coat that you believe belongs to a doctor, your ability to pay attention increases sharply. Apparently, wearing what you think is a doctor's coat can bring out the best in you! However, if you wear the same white coat believing it belongs to a painter, there's no improvement in your ability to concentrate. As the scientists behind the experiment stated, 'The clothes we wear have power not only over others, but also over ourselves.'

So our physical appearance and clothes influence the opinions people have of us and their behaviour towards us. This can sometimes make them use unfair stereotypes and get it wrong. But it seems that the clothes we wear also have a powerful effect both on how we feel and how we act. Perhaps that's worth remembering the next time you're trying to decide what to wear.

A. Choose the correct answer.

1. In the first paragraph, what does the writer say about how we judge appearances?
   - a) We always make decisions based on physical characteristics.
   - b) First impressions are usually wrong.
   - c) We are not aware of how much appearances affect our decisions.

2. Which statement is true about the experiment in the second paragraph?

a) We trust mature people more.
b) Participants in different countries rated people differently.
c) We only judge the characters of people we know.

3. In the third paragraph, what does the writer suggest?

a) People who wear uniforms are better listeners.
b) We often believe stereotypes.
c) People who wear glasses are more intelligent.

4. How can putting on a white coat influence you?

a) It can help you concentrate better.
b) It can help you control other people.
c) It can make you believe you're a doctor.

5. What would be the most suitable sub-heading for this article?

a) Studies show it's better to dress well if you want to be successful in life.
b) The way we look affects what people think of us and how we feel and behave.
c) Some stereotypes are false, but the way people look tells us a lot about them.
