After the Arts Day

Letter 1: Natasha (Tasha) Simms to Professor Barnes

Dear Professor Barnes,

I am writing to thank you very much for allowing us to reproduce the photographs of your Ancient British treasure trove on our festival DVD. As these artefacts have never been publicly displayed, we are most grateful to you for allowing us to include these unique images. Your contribution has made our DVD of special interest to many people.

I am also sending a newspaper cutting of a report on the Arts Day, which I hope you will find interesting. We are keen to organise another festival for next year and we are already thinking of how we can make it bigger and better. As one of our literature events, we are thinking about early writing and handwriting as an art form.

On behalf of the festival committee, I would like to ask you if you would be willing to contribute to our next festival. We understand that you have a special interest in early forms of writing and we would like to invite you to give a talk on that subject. Should you feel able to respond to our requests, we would be delighted to hear from you.

Yours sincerely, Natasha Simms

Letter 2: Todd to Lee

Dear Lee,

I'm sending this letter to the Panda Conservation base camp and hope that you'll get it when you're back from your field trip. How's it all going? I know you've always wanted to get involved in environmental protection so I hope this work experience is living up to your expectations.

I thought you'd like to know that we've created a DVD of the festival and I've enclosed your free copy! Tasha, efficient as ever, has sent one to your father as well and thanked him again for sponsoring the absolutely sensational fireworks. We were all bowled over by his generosity. Lucie printed off one of her photographs. It looks as if a giant hand has scattered fistfuls of coloured lights across the sky.

I've developed quite a passion for pyrotechnics since the summer, by the way. I'm intrigued by the colours and shapes that explode in the sky like vast, scintillating jewels breaking apart. Phenomenal!

We've just had a committee meeting for the next festival - yes, we've decided to take the plunge again! I remember you saying once that your father is an enthusiastic, amateur calligrapher. Could you let us know if you think he'd be up for it?

Best wishes from everyone here, Todd
