Q.1 Read the text, then answer the questions below. 10 points

Science Fiction or Science Fact?

The existence of super-intelligent machines, in which lifelike robots in the future obey and perform complicated tasks, has moved quickly from science fiction to science fact. From facial identification systems in our phones, to algorithms that help us search the internet, the development of Artificial Intelligence (AI) has changed the way we interact with technology.

What is AI?

AI is already a part of our lives in the form of the computer technology. This type of AI is called Narrow AI and it focuses on a particular task it has been programmed to do. For example, it can be used for the GPS systems in a car, or the voice-recognition systems that let us talk to our smart devices. AI suggests things for us to listen to, it can remind us to do something important, and is also used in social media to send users adverts.

General AI, on the other hand, allows machines to learn, reason and make judgements based on previous experiences - just like humans! This kind of super-intelligence isn't a reality quite yet, but the aim is to teach it to do better than humans in all tasks that require mental effort. There are disagreements about when General AI might become a reality. Some experts say never, while others believe it could happen as early as 2045.

How can AI help us?

Robots already carry out many boring or unpleasant jobs for us. However, advances in AI mean that they can perform more complicated tasks, such as high-precision medical surgeries, dangerous search and rescue operations or even scientific research such as tracking fish in the sea.

How can we make sure AI is safe?

We possess greater intelligence than robots at the moment. But if our technological creations become more intelligent than us, will we control them or will they have a mind of their own? Experts have proposed that we speed up research on AI safety immediately. There are also many other important questions about AI - for example, how will we earn money if machines can do most jobs? What legal rights and responsibilities will robots and other super-intelligent machines have? Ultimately, we need to begin an important conversation about what sort of future we want and how AI can help us get there.
